

Mr. Chairman, the amendment caps the average seasonal price for peanuts at $640 per ton. If the price rises above that price then no more peanut program.

The peanut program works: American-produced peanuts are safe; prices have remained stable, rising less than the rate of inflation since 1979; consumer prices for peanut products in the United States remain lower than that in other countries.

We have avoided the boom-and-bust cycle typical of other agricultural industries. The peanut program is good for our farmers, particularly the family farmer. The average-sized peanut farm is slightly less than 100 acres. Some 87 percent of peanut farms are family farms and more than 80 percent are owner-operated.

One thing is for certain—killing the peanut program would do much more harm than good. The loss of jobs, farm revenue, land value, and local tax base would devastate smaller communities.

We would increase our reliance on unstable and uncertain supplies of foreign peanuts, we would lose our quality assurance, we would lose our most valuable resource—our farmers.

The 1996 Farm bill, which we just passed, makes reforms to the peanut program. Let's give these changes a chance to work.

Let's not break our commitment to America's farmers.

Vote "no" on the Kolbe amendment.

INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTION PROMOTING DEMOCRACY THROUGH THE INTERNET

HON. RICK WHITE

OF WASHINGTON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 1996

Mr. WHITE. Mr. Speaker, today, I join with my good friend and colleague from Virginia in introducing a resolution calling on Congress to use the Internet to provide constituents with more access to government information; communicate with constituents through electronic mail, and work with the net community to get input on issues affecting the Internet.

Yesterday, a three-judge panel of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania granted a preliminary injunction against enforcement of the Communications Decency Act, on the grounds of constitutionality. The main reason this act was found unconstitutional is because Congress didn't understand what the Internet is all about. We tried to apply the indecency standard—a rule developed for television—to the Internet, which is a very different medium. If we want to avoid such problems in the future, Congress is going to have to learn what the Internet is all about.

But the drive behind this resolution goes further than educating Congress about the Internet—it fulfills our promise to make Congress more accessible to the American people.

The Internet is a powerful new medium that is growing by leaps and bounds. Each day more and more people are logging onto the Net to get information. As more people use the Internet as a way to communicate, do business, and educate our children, we in Congress need to make sure that we are using this new medium as a way to communicate with our constituents. By posting committee reports, voting records, and other documents on the Internet we will give the public access to the same information we in Congress have.

Next year, Congress will go back to the drawing board to rewrite the CDA. When that time comes, I am optimistic that a more educated Congress will develop a solution that protects our children and protects our free speech.

Until that time, it is important to get more Members of Congress involved in Internet issues. That is why this resolution is so important. This resolution will require that Members of Congress go on record to show their commitment to learning about, and using, the Internet.

"WOULD"

HON. ANDREW JACOBS, JR.

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 1996

Mr. JACOBS. Mr. Speaker, let's get rid of the dead WOULD.

A strange practice has crept in to discourse on the floor of the U.S. House. Members are beginning to use the subjunctive where it simply does not apply. One hears, "I WOULD yield 5 minutes to—."

"I WOULD"? I WOULD if what?

And of course, parliamentary rules require that a Member address the Chair, not "Ladies and Gentlemen."

While we are at it, I believe that recorded votes are requested in the Committee of the Whole and the yeas and nays are requested in the formal sessions of the House.

KIP TIERNAN TO BE HONORED ON HER 70TH BIRTHDAY FOR HER MANY ACHIEVEMENTS

HON. JOSEPH P. KENNEDY II

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, June 13, 1996

Mr. KENNEDY of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, on Friday, June 21, 1996, the people of Boston are holding a truly momentous event. The purpose of the event is to honor a woman who has been at the forefront of the struggle for equal rights for all people. This party, to celebrate the 70th birthday of Kip Tiernan, is a recognition of the woman and her many great achievements throughout her life. Kip has valiantly fought for the rights of the poor and disenfranchised in our society, from the founding of Rosie's Place in 1974 to her continued work as a adjunct professor of ethical policy at the University of Massachusetts. Her work has reached far and touched many and that is why we have all come together to honor this truly extraordinary woman.

Rosie's Place was created by Kip in response to a need for a place where poor and homeless women could go to find food, shelter, and support in their time of need. The continued work and dedication Kip has given to this, the first such shelter of its kind in the United States, has allowed it to evolve into a place where women could not only find immediate food and shelter, but also long-term aid through permanent housing and education programs. The achievements of Rosie's Place, in addition to her part in founding the Boston Food Bank, the Boston Women's Fund, Health Care for the Homeless and Community Works mark Kip as a true champion of the poor.

It is an honor and a privilege to be able to lend my thoughts and sentiments to this celebration of Kip Tiernan. Her life and work and the aid she has been able to give to so many people should serve as an example to us all. Her life was, and continues to be, an influential one, unselfishly dedicated to helping others. Let us celebrate on this day a great woman who has done so much for so many.
